Introduction

Scope

This disposal schedule endorses and mirrors the General Retention and Disposal Authority (GDA) for Administrative Records of National Bodies approved by the Council of Australasian Archives and Records Authorities (CAARA) on 18 October 2013, for use by national bodies that are subject to the State Records Act 1997.

The CAARA GDA for Administrative Records was developed by the CAARA National Bodies Working Group in accordance with CAARA Policy 11 – Guidelines for the Treatment of Records of Inter-Governmental Agencies. It provides agreed and consistent retention and disposal requirements across all Australian States and Territories for the records of common administrative functions that may be performed by national bodies.

National bodies are established under national schemes where Constitutional powers rest with States and Territories, and not the Commonwealth, and where the bodies concerned are not otherwise Commonwealth bodies.

Records created by national bodies' predecessor agencies are not covered by this disposal schedule. Records of common administrative functions created by predecessor agencies that are subject to the State Records Act 1997 must be disposed of in accordance with General Disposal Schedule No. 15 for State Government Agencies (as amended).

This disposal schedule does not authorise the disposal of records of functions that are unique to a national body(s). Records of functions that are unique need to be covered separately by a function or sector-specific operational records disposal schedule (RDS).

GDS 34 is intended to be a comprehensive schedule encompassing all administrative records of national bodies.

Objectives

The aims of GDS 34 are to:

- identify records which are worth preserving permanently as part of South Australia's archival heritage
- prevent the premature destruction of records which need to be retained for a specified period to satisfy legal, financial and other requirements of public administration and
- permit the destruction of those records not required permanently.

Implementation

GDS 34 is issued under the State Records Act 1997.

The State Records Act was proclaimed in October 1997 to provide for the preservation and management of official records. GDS 34 is issued as a determination under section 23 of the Act.

Section 23 of the State Records Act 1997 states that no official records may be disposed of without a determination made by the Director [Manager], State Records and approved by the State Records Council. GDS 34 provides national bodies with the means of disposing of their administrative records in an orderly, consistent and accountable manner.

GDS 34 Version 1 was approved by the State Records Council on 18 February 2014.

GDS 34 Version 2 was approved by the State Records Council on 16 December 2014 and is effective until 30 June 2024.

GDS 34 is issued in electronic form via State Records' website (www.archives.sa.gov.au) to allow ease of use and greater accessibility.

Any modification of the Schedule by end users is not permitted. Changes can only be made with the approval of CAARA, State Records and the State Records Council.

Updates/Amendments

GDS 34 Version 2 is effective from 16 December 2014 to 30 June 2024 unless reviewed earlier as instructed by the national bodies, CAARA, State Records or the State Records Council. Amendments approved by the State Records Council may be issued during this period.

GDS 34 Version 2 differs from Version 1 in that it incorporates two new temporary disposal classes (items 6.1.19 and 6.1.20) under FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT – Accounting.

Previous Disposal Schedules Revoked

GDS 34 Version 1 is revoked by GDS 34 Version 2.

Complementary Disposal Schedules

GDS 34 is to be complemented by RDS' developed and approved for individual national bodies.

Consultation

The CAARA GDA for Administrative Records was developed by the CAARA National Bodies Working Group in accordance with CAARA Policy 11 – Guidelines for the Treatment of Records of Inter-Governmental Agencies. The Working Group included representation from each State and Territory archives or public records authority.

GDS 34 endorses and mirrors the CAARA GDA.

Adequate Records Management

Outcome 3 of Adequate Records Management: Meeting the Standard (State Records, as amended) requires records to be disposed of systematically in accordance with the State Records Act 1997. For national bodies an important aspect of compliance with the Standard is the application of GDS 34 as a routine part of their records management programs.

Retention periods in GDS 34 may be applied to records on creation and registration for later review; alternatively records may be sentenced when they become non-current.

Record Formats

GDS 34 applies to records in any format. This includes paper, microform (film or fiche), audiovisual, graphic, photographic and electronic media.

Access Rights and Responsibilities

National bodies need to ensure that records, irrespective of format, will remain accessible for the duration of the designate retention period. By "accessible" it is meant that the information contained within a record remains readable for the life of the record. In addition, "accessible" also refers to the retrievability and availability of a record. Whether stored on or off-site, a record needs to be able to be retrieved and made available as soon as practicable.

Retention Periods and Reactivation

Retention periods for temporary records shown in GDS 34 are minimum retention periods for which records must be retained before they are destroyed.

Retention periods are triggered by disposal actions listed in the Schedule.

If a record is reactivated after a retention period has commenced the time is recalculated from the date of the subsequent last action.

The reactivation of a record is triggered by such events as:

- record retrieved to meet a Freedom of Information (FOI) request
- record retrieved to meet a subpoena
- record accessed for research
- record identified as being of significant risk management status
- record identified as being required for possible legal proceedings.

There is no requirement to destroy temporary records if national bodies have a need to retain them longer than the designated minimum retention period. However, in the interests of efficient and economic records management, national bodies should take all steps to reduce the storage costs of time-expired records.

Destruction of Records

When official records in a national body's custody or housed in secondary storage, are due to be destroyed in accordance with the provisions of this or other disposal determinations, State Records is required to be notified via an Intention to Destroy Records Report. This form is available on the State Records' website (www.archives.sa.gov.au).

National bodies must ensure that all destruction is secure and confidential and that a certificate confirming destruction is provided by private contractors.

Standard methods for destruction of paper are shredding, pulping or other means that are environmentally friendly.

Records in electronic format must only be destroyed by reformatting or rewriting to ensure that the data and any "pointers" in the system are destroyed. "Delete" instructions do not offer adequate security as data may be restored or recovered.

National bodies should keep their own record of all records destroyed, noting the relevant disposal authority. Proof of destruction may be required for legal purposes, or in response to FOI applications. When records are destroyed systems that control them should also be updated by inputting destruction dates and relevant disposal authorities.

Normal Administrative Practice

The destruction of some official record that are of a transitory nature only may be permitted under normal administrative practice (NAP). NAP covers the destruction of ephemeral material of a facilitative nature created, acquired or collected by staff during the course of their duties.

A list of document types which may be disposed of in accordance with NAP is provided at Section 18.

Legal Deposit

Legal deposit refers to statutory provisions that oblige publishers to deposit copies of their publications in libraries in the country in which they are published. Under the Commonwealth Copyright Act 1968 and various Australian state Acts, a copy of any work published in Australia must be deposited with (a) the National Library of Australia and (b) the appropriate State Library. Legal deposit extends not only to commercial publishers but also to private individuals, clubs, churches, societies and organisations.

In South Australia, one copy of publications produced for external use should be deposited with the State Library and the Parliamentary Library (section 35, Libraries Act 1982). Publications include books, newspapers, magazines, journals, pamphlets, maps, plans, charts, printed music, records, cassettes, films, video or audio tapes, computer software CD-ROMS, compact discs and other items made available to the public.

Records and Litigation

Where a national body is aware that records may be required for use in litigation, for use in a government inquiry or the consideration of the SA Ombudsman, the records must not be destroyed. In such circumstances the records must be retained until two years after all cases and inquiries are complete (including appeals) and then have the original retention period applied to the records.

Pre-1901 Records

All pre-1901 records are required to be retained permanently in accordance with a motion approved by the State Records Council on 19 February 2008. In this instance, however, GDS 34 does not apply to pre-1901 records.

Training

Training in general records management areas is available from State Records. For further information about workshops and courses, national bodies should contact State Records or visit its website (www.archives.sa.gov.au).

18. EPHEMERAL DOCUMENTS

Ephemeral documents are items of short term, temporary informational value. They should not be incorporated into an agency's recordkeeping system. Their authorised destruction is often referred to as Normal Administrative Practice (NAP) – which is the routine destruction of ephemeral material of a facilitative or duplicate nature created, acquired or collected by public sector employees during the course of their duties.

The below list is not finite but contains examples of ephemeral documents which may be routinely disposed of.

Calendars and diaries - personal

Desk calendars and office diaries where no entries pertaining to work activities have been recorded.

Contact lists

Reference sets of directories, address and contact lists, including directories and lists produced by the agency, other agencies and organisations or suppliers.

Copies

Duplicate copies created for reference.

Drafts not required as public records

Drafts of reports, correspondence, routine calculations not circulated as final documents internally or externally and of which a final draft has been produced and which becomes the record of the agency.

Informational material

Informational material, including lists of suppliers, catalogues, etc.

Manuals and instructions - superseded

Superseded manuals and instructions (except for a master set which includes superseded portions).

Telephone message slips

Telephone message slips when the message does not relate to the business functions of the agency.

Transitory messages

Transitory messages of minor importance, the sole purpose of which was to provide information of temporary, short-term value or information already recorded and available in an acceptable medium (i.e. paper-based or electronic) elsewhere in the agency.

Unsolicited brochures

Brochures received regarding goods and services.

Working documents

Rough notes and diagrams which have been used solely to assist in the preparation of other records, such as correspondence, reports and statistical tabulations.
